

Greaves Wins 6th Career Championship: WSORR Inaugural Pro 4x4 Series Title for Team Monster Energy Potawatomi Toyota

Wheatland, MO (September 23, 2007) – Much to the surprise of no one in the off-road racing community, Johnny Greaves clinched his fourth Pro-4x4 title this past weekend with a win on Saturday at the Lucas Oil facility in Wheatland, MO. It was also his third title in three straight years with a BorgWarner cup and a Potawatomi Chairman's Cup as well. "Johnny Greaves continues to dominate the short-course off-road racing scene and he looks like he could continue this for a long time too," stated Joe Parson, Monster Energy's Motorsports Director.

While it was Greaves' 6th professional season championship, it was a welcome accomplishment for the newly formed Monster Energy Potawatomi Toyota Pro-4x4 Race Team. Greaves, the winningest driver in the history of CORR and WSORR fought off a veteran field of Pro-4x4 regulars including Carl Renezeder and Scotty Douglas. All Greaves had to do to clinch the title on Sunday was to make a lap and he was able to do that before an electrical problem halted his final WSORR season race on Sunday. Perhaps Joe Parsons of Monster Energy put it best when told about the title via text message, "Indeed, HE IS THE MAN!"

"I am so happy that I could bring this championship home to the Potawatomi who have been so involved in WSORR this year," said an excited Greaves from the podium. "This one is for our whole team that supported us running two series this year. Monster, Potawatomi, TRD/Toyota, and BFGoodrich really stuck with us and we are just happy it worked out."

Greaves began Saturday's race with a third place start behind Renezeder and Douglas. Midway through the race, the two veterans out front got into a "skirmish of sorts" that gave Renezeder a black flag and slowed them down just enough for Greaves to make his move into the lead for good.

On Sunday, with the title clinched, Greaves was running in third when he heard a strange sound and smelled something burning. He wisely pulled off, not wanting to do further damage to the Toyota. It turned out to be an electrical short of sorts and he called it a weekend with the championship in tow.

"We have a lot of racing left this year yet," said Greaves referring to the CORR series still very much up for grabs with three race weekends left. "While I would love to celebrate, I really don't have time. We have another job to do for the team when we get out west. But my crew and team have worked their tails off lately and I just want to bring home another title for all of my fans and supporters."
